The Ladies' Home Journal

has devoted an entire page in its May issue in the cause of true temperance.

It correctly points out that the use of patent medicines containing from 12 to 47 per cent of alcohol must be far more injurious than good, wholesome beers, containing only from 2 to 5 per cent of alcohol, in which, through fermentation and pas-teurization, disease germs have been killed. In all lines of production there is some certain article which leads all others by reason of its purity and quality. In the brewing industry this particular article is Anheuser-Busch's Budweiser bottled beer.

Replenishing Oyster Beds.

Oyster shells from the big pile left standing on the oyster wharf at the foot of 11th street southwest are being taken down the river to be laid out on barren oyster beds for the purpose of replenishing the beds. The schooner E. P. Evans left port yesterday evening with fifty or sixty tons of shells aboard for a river point, and numpers of other boats will follow her in the next week or ten days. The oysters down the river are now spawning, and the spot, as the egg of the oyster is called, floats around until it attaches itself to some stationary object and there it remains. The oyster shells are thrown overboard for the purpose of giving the spot something on which to attach themselves. During the summer months the young oysters grow very rapidly, and by the opening of the oyster season in the fall they will, it is stated be an inch or two long. Shells from Potomac oysters are taken to the James, York and other rivers in Virginia, and to the Delaware and other prothers and to the Delaware and other northern rivers to be placed upon the oyster beds, and, it is stated, the Potomac shells form the very best holding ground for spot, which flourish and grow rapidly when at Steamer Wakefield Inspected. The steamer Wakefield of the Randall line, employed on the route between this city and river landings, underwent her annual inspection by the officials of the United States steamboat inspection service this morning. The inspectors came over from the headquarters in Baltimore and made a close examination as to the condition of the hull of the steamer and of ner boats and life saving equipment. The boiler and machinery were also thoroughly tested to the satisfaction of the inspectors. Every requirement of the marine laws was found complied with, and the steamer's license to carry passengers on the Potomac will be renewed for another year.

Rebuilding Stiffs' Wharf.

Stiffs' wharf, on the Potomac in King Seorge county, Va., about forty miles down the river, is being rebuilt and made ready for service as a steamboat landing. This was one of the wharves that was destroyed by the drifting ice last winter, the entire structure, with the exception of the pier head, having been carried away. It is one of the important wharves on the river and is the only steamboat landing between Gunston and Stuart's wharves, a distance of fully twenty-five miles. of fully twenty-five miles.

The new wharf will be completed and ready for use by the end of this month.

ing Upon Him.

A fatal accident occurred in the railroad yard near 13th and D streets southwest this morning. The victim, a colored driver named Hildra Simms, was killed by lumber falling on him from a car.

Simms was employed by William R. Riley and was working with two other men unloading lumber when the accident happened. He pulled a staple from the car, and, when he saw the lumber sliding, tried to get out of the way. Unfortunately for him he ran against his wagon and fell, the lumber falling upon him before he could regain his feet. Life was extinct when the other workmen removed the lumber from him. The body was removed to the morgue and Coroner Nevitt gave a certificate of accidental death. Simms was fifty-eight years old and his home was at 180 D street south-
